

Site-Specific Wilderness Public Affairs Materials

The following questions will help as you gather public affairs materials specific to your park's wilderness area.

1. What current issues does your park face concerning wilderness designation or management? Are there any past issues that have been solved?
2. What is the local political climate surrounding wilderness?
3. What perspectives on wilderness are found in the local community? Are there historic or cultural perspectives that influence community involvement in wilderness recreation, events, or decision-making?
4. Are there any recently published articles that discuss your wilderness area?
